

As Pacific Islanders...

... living in the United States, we have the right to be counted in the 2020 Census.

The U.S. census is a population count that happens every 10 years. Everyone in your home should be counted, including newborn babies and children of all ages.

The census informs how billions of dollars in public funding are spent each year.

Your responses to the census are confidential. You can respond online, by phone, or by mail.
